

An Imperial Affair

By S. Z. Ahmed

Infinity Publishing.com. Paperback. Book Condition: New. Paperback. 154 pages. Dimensions: 8.5in. x 5.5in. x 0.4in. This historic novel and love story is about an imperial prince of the Ching Dynasty (1736-1795) who fell madly in love with a young imperial concubine of Emperor Chien Lung. During this time Lord George Macartney, a cousin of the English King, was sent to China as an ambassador. One day, Emperor Chien Lung summoned the prince to go with him and his entourage for a hunt, north of The Forbidden City. The prince arrived at the royal palace and saw for the first time this extremely young and beautiful imperial concubine. He fell in love with her then and there. They all left The Forbidden City for the northern jungles, to hunt wild and ferocious boars around the royal hunting lodge. During the hunt, a pack of wild and ferocious boars attacked the royal party and killed one concubine. The pack proceeded towards the emperor himself when, just in the nick of time, the prince saved the life of the emperor and this imperial concubine. When the whole chaos was over, the emperor summoned the prince and asked him what he wanted in return for...
