Reviews

The publication is simple in go through preferable to fully grasp. I am quite late in start reading this one, but better then never. It is extremely difficult to leave it before concluding, once you begin to read the book.

Nurses are always in difficulties at first how to observe, and then how to describe, what they learn about those under their care. A table such as the following may be helpful, and assist in making a report if it should be required. 1. By Observation.--What can be seen and noted by the nurse: General appearance, attitude, tidiness, cleanliness. Facial expression. General health, colour, nutrition. Physical peculiarities. Actions, behaviour, conduct. 2. By Conversation.--A talk upon general topics will generally elicit a great deal respecting the-- Emotional state. Power of attention. Consciousness. Power of connected thought. By inquiry the state of the mind can be further investi-;ated in respect to the-- Memory. Presence of hallucinations, delusions, or obsessions. Difficulties in respect to self-control. Impulsive tendencies--suicidal, homicidal. 3. Letters written by the patient, when available, frequently xhibit want of self-control and defective judgment...
